LIBRARY CATALOG AVAILABLE FOR HOLDS AGAIN

ONLINE | When the library began renovations almost a year ago, our children's collection was boxed up and put into storage at an offsite location. After the library began curbside services but the renovation continued, our patrons were not able to put on hold the library's own collection of books and other items through our online catalog, nextkansas.org. This was due to staff members not being able to go through the storage boxes full of materials. Luckily, the library has since gotten those boxes back in the building and our amazing staff have put nearly everything back on the shelves! Completing this step means that any Morrill Public Library patron is now able to choose books in the catalog and put them on hold without needing to call or email us (although we are still happy to help in those ways!). To find out how you can place a hold online, visit hiawathalibrary.org/your-next-account. We are so happy to be able to offer this service again!
